

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

What is invented is a semiconductor device (10) comprising a pellet (12) having a ground electrode (18), an outside signal terminal (15) connected to the pellet (12), so as to receive signal which is likely to include noise. Therein, said outside signal terminal (15) is surrounded with a ground terminal (17) connected to said ground electrode (18) in at least a half periphery.